PHA demands records

PAHOKEE — Pahokee Housing Authority has indicated it will take a close look at the city's proposed 1981 budget and push for revisions based on more government funding.

Citing the Federal Freedom of Information Act and the state's Public Records Act, the PHA board of commissioners has asked for copies of the 1981 city budget and fiscal records covering the past four years to be supplied, no cost.

A letter requesting copies of the documents was presented to city council at Tuesday night's session by PHA Commission Chairman Mead Maxwell and PHA Director Randall Mills, who voiced concern over the increased water rate and the cutback to once-a-week garbage collection.

They charged that the city has not sought federal funding which, they said, is available to Pahokee as a depressed city and that the proposed minimum is $100,000. Also they criticized commissioners for not contacting legislators for an opinion before deleting shared-revenue income from the proposed budget.

In reply to the PHA representatives, Council President Billy McKinstry said the city could not count on money it has not on base the budget on state and federal revenue that was not yet passed.

Documents requested by the PHA include the operating budget for each year from 1976 to 1980 plus the end of year financial statements for those years, statements of funds on hand and invested funds, breakdowns of all bond issues, and a listing of all city employee positions and salaries.

A proposal in the coming year's budget to discontinue paying electric light bills for mobile home situations and facilities to receive the owner's services as unpaid security guards also brought two of the affected owners before the council.

They were Trooper Ron Cucchiara of the Florida Highway Patrol and Deputy Steve Stull who cited the numerous arrests they've made and the absence of vandalism in the areas their mobile homes are located. Cucchiara oversees the incinerator, city barn, and sewer plant, and Stull, the library and tennis courts.

The men also pointed out

CRACKER CRUMBS

BY DEAN JONES

In the Suspicious Confirmation category, I got the callahow word the other day that the most recent person to move into Palm Beach County is $10,000 a year, brother, if you make less than $12,000, you ain't nothin' but lo-o-ow.

income.

Well, my daddy did say we were poor, but I never wrote trash and I always thought him. But it did hurt somewhat to find out that's what the guv'mint thinks too.

Oh well, back to the old philosophy that if I give out with a gaffe, you can just say it's a good white trash and I always thought him. But it did hurt somewhat to find out that's what the guv'mint thinks too.

On the other hand, if I ever accomplish anything, I will have progressed.

All seriousness aside though, that wasn't the first time I've had suspicions I'm in what you call low-income category, not to say impoverished, destitute. Inconvenient, hard-up, financially distressed and embarrassed.

And if I wasn't convinced otherwise, I would've been the time not too long ago when I was sitting at a table with most working over a bowl of tepid gruel, and caught the tail end of a conversation.

"Well," came the reply to a statement or question I didn't hear, "I just don't see how anybody can make it on $18,000 a year...not to mention the way they are."

"Why?" I wanted to cry, "neither do I, but I'd sure like to try. Would you believe to $12,000? I did that too."

What I did was sit there and choke on my gruel. It's a good idea, though, to check back when you're chowing on gruel. Tasteless gruel too. The cook had scraped off all the grease that had been on top.

Guess that was to make it stick in your craw, but I'll take a look at it again. You feel more filled up too so it doesn't take as much to satisfy you.

Gotta keep the masses satisfied with as little mess as possible.

At any rate, what I'm telling you, if I ever get there, is that it's rotten enough to have to eat the gruel but it makes it even more tasteless even if Memorial Day, Labor Day and a few other things besides rain, sleet and gloom of night can't stop 'em.

Besides, I don't even like gruel. I like grits...no grits, if you please.

Course, there's always the alternative of getting, if not a job, a job that's available with the Post Office, where we're informed by reliable sources (somebody told us on the street) they start off making the nice median income of $18,000. But it's so hard, don'tcha know, to get a job these days, with all the bummers holding a high school diploma or the equivalent and being able to work.

What I did was never States Postal Service.

They sure ain't much as newsmen...either that or they're teaching 'em something different nowadays in Journalism school.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Sir:

At some time during the morning hours of Sept. 8, this old, 11-foot-plus, approximately 300 pounds or better gator was doing what it had been doing for years: namely swimming in the waters of the Hillsboro Canal, the city sewer treatment plant and basking in the sun, making a meal of a turtle, or fish and the occasional unleashed dog.

That saved the county and the taxpayers the cost of picking up and eradicating same.

At this time, some "public spirited citizen" spotted the "old resident" and decided it was a hazard to life, limb and all of the other residents in the area, took a gun and shot his self in the head. Is the Fire Department, Police Department, Conservation Department and innumerable members of the city's work force to eliminate this menace to mankind?

After four hours of futilely attempting to capture the gator, it was shot and hoisted out of the canal via a power winch furnished by one of the above mentioned departments.

If this has anything to do with energy saving or ecology, as Darwin said we are all descended from apes, I'm a monkey's uncle.

Don't get conned

Reprinted by permission of the Florida Farm Bureau.

Alcohol production for gasohol is being touted as the salvation of agriculture in the '80s and '90s. Congress has made several billion dollars available in loans and grants to promote the rapid increase in alcohol production to help offset the rising fuel needs of this nation and to reduce oil imports.

Farmers are being inundated by folks either wanting to sell alcohol fuel systems for small farm operations or asking farmers to buy stock in some proposed large alcohol production facility.

There are some real concerns here, because many of these proposals could well be prompted by rip-off artists and, in some cases, ill-informed people. The changing technology of alcohol fuel production concerns some growers who are worried that after they invest thousands of dollars in equipment, new and better processes and tools will be available.

Any one who is considering getting involved in alcohol production in any way, whether it be in production of crops for an alcohol facility or in investing in the facility itself, should proceed with extreme caution for it is with certainty, many thousands and even millions of dollars will be lost before alcohol production for fuel will be perfected to economically compete with petroleum products.

Let the buyers beware, for this is a ready-made market for con artists to sell fuel systems that will end up in the scrap heap or at best make an unusual product.

Farm Bureau is interested in the promotion and development of legitimate alcohol fuel production. The future of farming energy along with food and fiber looks promising approach based on production for fuel a reality and a significant addition to supplying our nation's fuel needs.

This is a much better way for those in agriculture to get into the business — through economic and technological research and through a cautious and studied approach based on whether it is feasible.

Fly-by-night promoters say they never con anyone — only give a lesson in economics — and sometimes the cost hurts all the way to the bone. Sometimes, even a word to the wise is not sufficient. It may take a little bit of experience too!

Unleashing the IRS

Reprinted by permission of The Sacramento Bee.

The U.S. Senate Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations has, with good reason, urged the Internal Revenue Service to "get back into the fight against organized crime."

A report by the subcommittee refers to the fact that the IRS phased out its organized crime investigation and intelligence gathering functions because so many restrictions were placed on IRS agents by the Nixon administration.

The subcommittee charges that the IRS currently concentrates on violations by ordinary taxpayers in the middle and higher income brackets, but is not trying to make cases against drug traffickers and organized crime figures.

"There was a time when organized crime big shots, including hit-time drug dealers, feared IRS agents more than any other investigators," said Sen. Sam Nunn, chairman of the subcommittee, citing past examples of organized crime agents being convicted for income tax evasion when other enforcement agencies could not make a case against them.

Surely the financial investigative techniques used to catch and convict mobsters such as Al Capone are as effective today as they were in the days of prohibition. Logically, the IRS is the federal agency that can best use these techniques to trace the movement of money in the investigation of organized crime and drug traffic.

What is needed is a reorganization of the IRS investigations and intelligence departments, giving each its own director.

Housing subsidies for wealthy!

After the General Accounting Office delivered a blistering attack on waste and sloppiness in federal subsidized housing programs, we would have expected Congress to be acting a little contrite. Instead, the House is apparently so satisfied with the way things are going, it has voted to extend federal housing assistance to middle-income families.

It is the most. The new plan voted by the House would open the subsidy gate for families with incomes ranging as high as one-and-one-half times the local median income. In New York City, this works out to incomes of $42,000 a year.

PAHOKEE -- Permission to keep the county landfill dump site open to the city until its incinerator is in full-time operation is sought by City Council.

Commissioners approved a resolution Tuesday night to ask the county to delay the Sept. 30 closing of the dump's site to the city because it will cause a hardship and has not been proven to be an "environmental degradation."

The city intends to put its incinerator into full-time operation as soon as repairs are completed. Early estimates on repairs range from $20,000 to $40,000, according to Director of Public Works Donnie Martin.

Martin's report was given to the council by City Clerk Betty McCay in her absence. She told commissioners that Martin expected to have a firm estimate on the repairs by Friday.

"If you can show need," she told the commissioners, "then (HUD) will give you Section 8 units." She pointed out that other options are also available.

Commissioner Altman asked Ms. Peterson if she was implying the city hasn't done everything possible to facilitate the placement of Section 8 units. She quickly replied she wasn't, that she was spelling out what had to be done.

McCall said he had been impressed with the aid the city has given him in getting HUD approval of the Section 8 housing.

He noted that HUD not only looks at the need for housing but the ability of the governmental agency involved to produce the housing. He said Belle Glade has a good production record.

The city has estimated it would save some $12,000 a year in electricity costs while still having enough power to space for the mobile homes in exchange for security service.

Plans to adopt an ordinance that would require developers outside the city limits to pay an "impact fee" for connecting into city water and water lines were also set in motion at Tuesday night's session.

On recommendation of Utilities Director Bill Cross, the council instructed Attorney Michael Stauder to prepare an ordinance establishing impact fees for areas outside the city to be determined after a survey of similar fees charged by area municipalities.

The revenue raised would provide funding for any future expansion of facilities due to the added hook-ups needed by housing developments, councilmen agreed.

housing, just like the one I covered and where I saw a lot of the same people were there. Get away from those two facts and it was a different meeting though, even if they did run a picture that was taken at the meeting we both covered.

Looks as though I got left out again though because I covered two meetings on the same subject and I only heard about the one.

Sure wish somebody would tell me about these things.

ing, two other alternatives were mentioned: the first being a joint program between the city and county on the outskirts of the city which might be funded by the Farmers Home Administration.

The city isn't now eligible for FMHA funding because of a policy that the agency will only provide loans and grants to cities with populations under 10,000.

The second possibility was brought up by Bill Bailey, who said he would favor the use of part of a 240 acre parcel of land recently bought by the county on SR715 across from Belle Glade Junior College-Glades, with an eye toward making it a regional park, for housing.

Bailey said he had been criticized for wanting to use the entire parcel of land for a park rather than for housing but he said that isn't his position. He did stipulate, however, that if housing is put in, it should be single family residences or condominiums which would be bought by the tenants.

He noted the land had been bought by the county generated by a beach and rocks bond issue and by law the land would have to be used for recreation. On the other hand, he said part of the property could be sold, with the proceeds going into the county recreation fund, or swapped for other recreational land.

Bailey said he would like to retain at least 60 acres of the parcel of land and procure other land adjacent to the Belle Glade golf course to create another nine holes for the course.

After hearing other input, Miss Walker and Bailey said they were both satisfied the groundwork had been laid for cooperative efforts by the city and county to help resolve the city's housing problem.

state's attorney over how he had qualified.

Asberry withdrew his candidacy a week later via a certified letter to City Clerk June Boglioli, listing his only reason as, "circumstances beyond my control."

Woodard has been passing out flyers for the past week urging blacks not to vote; that the election was "rigged" because there were no black candidates.

This was the first time in four elections that Altman has been unopposed.

Goodlett took office, effective Oct. 1 and could be sworn in as a commissioner either at the end of the Sept. 22 meeting, at the beginning of the Oct. 13 commission meeting or at any called meeting between. The commission normally holds its reorganization meeting just before the first meeting in October.

The first order of the organizational meeting will be to select the 1980-81 mayor. Traditionally, although there are exceptions, the senior commissioner who has not yet held the office is selected.

With Kirk stepping down from the commission, the only commissioner who has held the mayor's slot will be Altman, who held it for two consecutive terms before Kirk. The next senior commissioner is Claude Tindall, who is beginning his fourth year, and the next two are Randy Davidson and Dorothy Walker, both just beginning the second year of their first term.

Put a "Show-off" in its place.

Even when they're not the center of attention, these genuine Bell phones are something to talk about...that's why we call them "Show-offs."

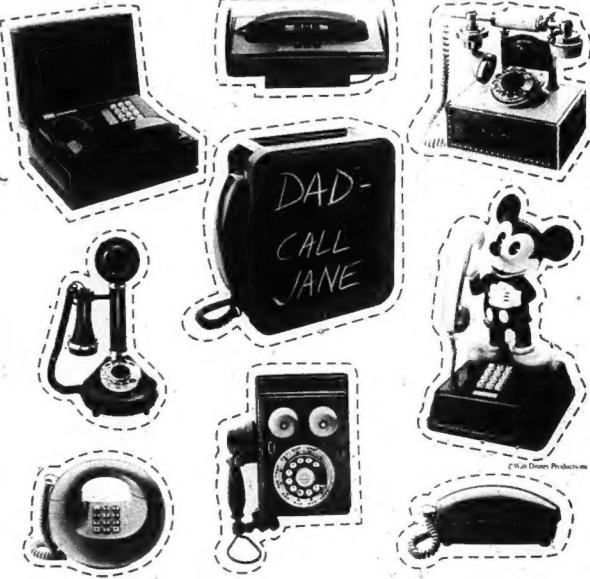

A "Show-off" can add the accent that helps any room look put together.

To find the one that's right for you, experiment. Cut out the phones on this page. Then use a decorating magazine to mix and match different "Show-offs" with different room scenes. For more ideas, come to your Southern Bell PhoneCenter Store. In addition to all the different styles, we'll show you some exciting services.

So come on in. Once you've seen a real "Show-off," you'll find that a "Show-off's" place is in your home.

IT'S FOR YOU

Southern Bell

A six month warranty is included with our purchase of the Design Line housing. And since the working parts remain the property of Southern Bell, we will repair them at no charge. Transfer of Design Line working parts is restricted to areas served by Bell Telephone Company.

Your boat motor needs TLC

By LORINE RACICOT
The old saying about "look after your equipment and it will look after you" was never more true than when it comes to your outboard motor.

It is the means of getting to the water and getting you home. Since the design of today's boats do not adapt to rowing and cars have become somewhat passe it pays to keep your motor in tip top condition.

When maintenance is neglected, breakdowns can be expected. Outboards can be expected to break down. Few motors fail at the dock. It is when you are several miles from home that the problem usually rears up and makes things rather awkward, to say the least.

Once a boat owner tells me, that in his estimation, at least 90% of breakdowns are unnecessary. Every purchase of an outboard is provided with an operation and maintenance manual.

The problem is that while most outboard owners read them, they don't follow them.

These manuals cover every facet of motor care and when followed through, on a regular basis, result in years of trouble free operation. The repairing dealers are not swamped with more than they can handle at times.

September is generally regarded as a "slow" fishing month so by getting your equipment ready at this time, you will be ready when the fishing and boating activity is at its best. For those whose motors are eight to ten years old it is important that you order replacement parts as soon as possible.

Few dealers stock parts for these vintage motors and delays in getting parts can be in procuring them from the factory. You just have to allow time for delivery. So get out those manuals and follow the check list. If like so many of us, you have written down the mechanical bent or the type of activity is just not you, then call your dealer now and arrange to bring your rig in for a proper inspection, tune up and where necessary, repair or replacement of parts.

For example, if your propeller is bent or warped, it can be repaired for as little as $15 to $20. The cost can be higher. It all depends on the condition of the motor, its horsepower and what repairs and parts due to the hot sun, very quickly. There are other reasons a pump is not good and the sun is not the only one to give problems. It is good practice to have the pump replaced periodically. It is far less expensive to replace it than it is to replace gears, shaft etc. Your dealer can do the job in a short time.

(3) Loose nuts and bolts — Remove the cowls from the motor and check every one. Tighten where necessary and if you see some loose nuts, tighten them. You will better out where each and every one goes. If you can't get it, get it to a mechanic who does know where each goes. This can prevent a lot of headaches.

(4) Propeller — Remove it. Check behind it for monofilament and other debris. Grease the shaft as called for and before replacing the prop have it checked to see that the central slip clutch is not deteriorated. If it is, have your dealer can have it re-bushed for you at nominal cost. Check the blades. If they are nicked, cracked, chipped have it re-conditioned. A bent blade, for example, can cause excessive drag on the gears and drive shaft over a period. So, "it looks pretty good," is not good enough. If both re-bushing and re-conditioning is required it is usually less expensive to get a new prop. Your dealer can advise you on this.

Small nicks can be filed even. Do not file more than is absolutely necessary. If you file too much you can upset the prop's balance. This can lead to costly repairs.

(5) Lower shaft — Remove the two nuts and draw the foot of the motor. Replace with new. Hypoid — as recommended by the manufacturers. Hypoid 90 is usually used but not always. Some motors require a different S.A.E.

(6) Gear fittings — Check these carefully and re-grease each and every one with the proper lubricant.

(7) Pull ropes — Whether your motor is an electric or manual start the pull rope must be in good condition. In the case of manual starts if the rope breaks you are just not going to start it at the dock or ramp or out on the water.

In the case of electric start motors check your auxiliary switch. Make sure the switch is such that it may let you down when you replace it immediately. Manual start pull ropes have a tendency to chafe severely for the first few inches directly behind the pull rope handle. This is due to the fact that the rope is being pulled straight to the puller instead of straight out. Any sign of chafing indicates immediate replacement of the pull rope.

(8) Water pump — The only sure way to check this very important part is to take the pump off and run it with the motor unit attached to the puller instead of straight out.

Any sign of chafing indicates immediate replacement of the pull rope.

(9) Gas tank — In the event you have old gas in your tank. Get rid of it! Gas left in tanks over a period will usually have considerable water in them. There are other reasons a pump is not good and the sun is not the only one to give problems. It is good practice to have the pump replaced periodically. It is far less expensive to replace it than it is to replace gears, shaft etc. Your dealer can do the job in a short time.

(10) Loose nuts and bolts — Remove the cowls from the motor and check every one.

Tighten where necessary and if you see some loose nuts, tighten them. You will better out where each and every one goes. If you can't get it, get it to a mechanic who does know where each goes. This can prevent a lot of headaches.

(11) Gear box action — For those who use their boats in the salt the galvanic action inhibitor on the foot of the motor should be checked frequently. It is designed to wear away to protect your motor. Replace when worn and it is a good idea to always have a spare.

(12) Fuel line — Check the line for cracking or checking.

It is also a good idea to check for flexibility.

A stiff tube is not good.

When the tube is not good, replace it. Primer bulbs should be thoroughly checked for cracks or splits.

Also check for uneven shape as this indicates the primer bulb is not long for this world. If the bulb is in good condition, replace the bulb.

The check valve in a bulb can wear out and your mechanic can tell you when it should be replaced. Check "O" rings very carefully. They should be flexible and show no signs of feathering or other deterioration. They should be replaced periodically if for no other reason than to be sure they won't fail.

HELPING INSURE THE FUTURE

Working inside the hull, sand an area about one-and-a-half inches beyond the damaged area.

Obtain a fiberglass repair kit and a piece of fiberglass cloth. An epoxy resin repair kit is my preference, because this does not have the shrinkage problem in curing that is experienced with polyester mixtures. Chopped glass fibers will also be needed.

Clean surface inside and outside the hull with acetone, being careful not to damage the fumes. Keep the cleaner off your skin.

After resin is mixed according to instructions on kit, apply resin from inside the hull to the walls of the damaged area. Then using a mixture of the resin and chopped glass fibers, daub the material into the hole. Do not push material through to outside of hull.

Cut fiberglass cloth to fit the sanded area. Saturate sanded surface and cloth with resin. Lay cloth on damaged area, smoothing to eliminate all air bubbles.

Cut a second piece of fiberglass cloth about an eighth of an inch smaller than original patch. While the first cloth is still wet, saturate cloth with resin, place it over first patch, smooth and eliminate all air bubbles. That should complete interior repairs.

Working from outside hull, check to make sure chopped glass fibers extend close enough to surface for strength, yet do not interfere with final application of gel coat. Apply final gel coat application as previously discussed, leaving surface one-sixteenth of an inch higher than neighboring surfaces. After curing, sand and smooth as discussed earlier.

trade-in value is higher, the cost of fuel is less and the pleasure factor is greater. Peace of mind is not to be overlooked either.

Come October our annual influx of winter visitors will begin. For local residents there is now the time to check your rig, rigging, motor, boat, trailer, and get the necessary replacements made while replacements are necessary.

The following is a check list which is designed to assist you:

(1) Spark plugs — Remove plug and check for firing, corrosion or just plain not firing. Gap-type plug can often be cleaned and re-gapped but the newer permagap plugs must be replaced when the electrode wears down. Make sure the gap is correct and is in accordance with the manufacturer's recommendations.

Manual start pull ropes have a tendency to chafe severely for the first few inches directly behind the pull rope handle. This is due to the fact that the rope is being pulled straight to the puller instead of straight out. Any sign of chafing indicates immediate replacement of the pull rope.

(58) Lower shaft — Remove the two nuts and draw the foot of the motor. Replace with new. Hypoid — as recommended by the manufacturers. Hypoid 90 is usually used but not always. Some motors require a different S.A.E.

(59) Gear fittings — Check these carefully and re-grease each and every one with the proper lubricant.

(60) Pull ropes — Whether your motor is an electric or manual start the pull rope must be in good condition. In the case of manual starts if the rope breaks you are just not going to start it at the dock or ramp or out on the water.

In the case of electric start motors check your auxiliary switch. Make sure the switch is such that it may let you down when you replace it immediately. Manual start pull ropes have a tendency to chafe severely for the first few inches directly behind the pull rope handle. This is due to the fact that the rope is being pulled straight to the puller instead of straight out. Any sign of chafing indicates immediate replacement of the pull rope.

Local high schools start football seasons

au four high schools in western Palm Beach County kick off their 1980 football seasons with home games Friday.

Christian Day School begins its season at 8 p.m. with a game against Boca Raton Christian School behind St. Peters Lutheran School on North Canal Street East.

Each of the other three teams in the area, Glades Central, Parkrose and Glades Day High Schools, respectively open their seasons on their home fields at 8 p.m.

Glades Central will begin its season opener against J.I. Leonard, Parkrose will kick off its year against Boca Raton and Glades Day will open against Boca Raton.

Crusader head coach Gus Harmon said he'll be coming off a 2-7 season last year with a number of returning lettermen and starters, hoping for a .500 record for a building year in 1980.

Harmon is replacing last year's head coach, Kenneth Lazarus, who left to get his masters degree at Delta State University in Cleveland, Miss. while working as a graduate assistant on the basketball team there.

Returning to the backfield, Harmon will be Kent Moore, who the coach said is expected to set up a more balanced attack.

"We ran about 80 percent running plays last year, but this year, Alex should help us go more to 40 percent," said out the backfield will be Phillip Echols.

He said the mainstays on the line will be Gene Bair, Tod Hutton, James Barnwell, Stuart Hutton and Scott Hudson of Bronson.

Glades Central head coach Ben McCoy said last week his Raiders are about two to three weeks away from being ready to play. McCoy has two all-state players from last year's state champion runner-up team keying his backfield in the persons of Greg Bair and Jesse Hester and he has experienced men filling out every other position in the offensive and defensive back-fields.

McCoy's question mark has been his line after losing all his interior men through graduation last year. He noted the linemen coming on board are all young, "but if we can hold our own in the first two or three games, we'll be pretty strong the rest of the year."

Dr. Allen said there has been excessive rain in only three games of 1980's first eight months, leaving deficits in the other five.

More rain needed

Unusually light rains through the first three months of the year have left the Glades area with 6.41 inches less rainfall than the average for this time of year, according to Dr. Robert Allen of the Agricultural Research and Education Center.

Dr. Allen said there has been only 3.95 inches of rain in August, compared to the 5.5

year average of 8.13 inches. A total of 33.46 inches have fallen for the year compared to the 36.7 year average of 39.87 inches.

Dr. Allen said there has been excessive rain in only three games of 1980's first eight months, leaving deficits in the other five.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT leaders at Palm Beach Junior College-Glades met recently for the second time, as the school year got underway and the SGA began talks on projects, including extracurricular activities and a new marquee for the college campus.

THE ONLY FISH Dr. Robert Allen caught all day Sunday, in a bass fishing tournament between the Lake Okeechobee Tackle Testers, of Parkrose, and the Bassmasters of Belle Glade. The 7'11" hunker was the largest bass he's caught in his life.

Bass-masters Tackletesters

BELLE GLADE -- The Lake Okeechobee Bassmasters earned their name by putting the Lake Okeechobee Tackle Testers in the test before the Belle Glade club. The fishing club wound up their annual tournament with a feast of fresh fish.

The Bassmasters, from Belle Glade, caught a total of 147'1" compared to the Tackle Testers of Parkrose, who haul'd in another 87'4" for the competition. They fished at the Aubrey Parkrose Pavilion in the Belle Glade Marina, where they were joined by their wives and families for a fish fry.

The anglers were in a joking mood over the weigh-in statistics, but the results made them openly wonder if there would be enough bass to feed the 15 Belle Glade fisherman, the 13 Parkrose anglers and their wives and kids.

Before the weigh-in was completed however, one of the club members working at the scales quipped his, "tub runt," referring to the #3 washout, found to haul the catch to the cleaning table and a milk crate was used to haul off the rest of the dinner's entrée.

By the time the numbers were toted up, the Belle Glade club members had won in every category, including top individual honors that went to Derrell Mathis and Dr. Bob Allen.

"I only caught one fish," Allen crowed, "but it's the biggest. I've caught in my entire life." The 7'11" hunker was also big enough to win the title for him of the largest bass snagged in the tournament.

Mathis won the title for the best string, totalling up his 20'1".

Mathis was followed by second place winner David Sullivan, with a 17'1" string.

Williams service held of West Palm Beach, six grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Burial was in Port Mayaca Cemetery. Pallbearers were Eustis Blackwell, Carney Wider, Rupert Mock Jr., Charles Baker, Ronnie May and C.R. Wetherington. Wetherington Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Racquetball tournament set

BELLE GLADE -- The City Recreation Department has scheduled a racquetball tournament for Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 20-21, at Airport Park, according to Recreational Coordinator Mike Underwood.

PRIDE'S BEAM, a two year old stallion, won first place in his division at the Tennessee Walking Horse competition in Shalbyville, Tenn., for Hugh Branch Pabokee.

Pride's Beam takes blue ribbon

PAHOKEE -- Pride's Beam was a source of pride recently when he was first place in his class for owner Hugh Branch Pabokee in the 22nd Annual Tennessee Walking Horse National Celebration in Shalbyville, Tenn., the Walking Horse Capital of the World.

Branch's horse, with Charles Bobo up in the saddle, was the winner of the year old walking stallions, beating out 44 other entries in the show, which drew more than 100,000 spectators.

The show is sponsored by the Tennessee Walking Horse National Celebration Association, a non-profit organization dedicated to the promotion of the Tennessee Walking Horse.

Branch's Celebration has been held every year since 1959 when it became as a modest horse show on the grounds behind the local high school.

Branch won $1,000 prize money along with a trophy and $100 for his entry, and $100,000 in prize money and which went to entries in almost 80 classes.

Branch is president of Hugh Branch, Inc. in Belle Glade.

Cook's Choice

Mrs. Robert Y. Creech, the former Nancy Hooler, selected this week's recipe, one that uses our native homegrown produce, she points out. Both the Hoolers and the Creeches were Glades pioneer families, coming here in the 1900s. Long active in community affairs, Nancy is president of the Belle Glade Study Club, a member of the PEO sisterhood, and the Alliant Church, teaching children's church and singing in the choir. Her hobby is homesewing, who loves to sew and gardening.

The Creeches are the parents of five children: R. Y., III, a teacher in Darlington, S.C.; Lane, a golf pro in Altoona, Pa.; Rachel Creech, married to a U.S. Army Captain stationed at Ft. DeRidder, La.; Nancy, a student at Florida Southern College in Lakeland, and Amy, a student at Glades Day School. And they have four grandchildren.

Her recipe is a one-dish meal that goes well with a tossed salad, says Nancy, and it can be prepared ahead of time.

GUACAMOLE VEGETABLE

Guacamole
2 avocados, peeled
1/2 large tomato, diced
1/4 cup chopped onion
1 1/2 tape lime juice
1/2 tape salt

Sauted Vegetables:
6 Tbsp butter or margarine
3 medium zucchini, thinly sliced (4 1/2 cups)
2 medium onions cut into eighths
1 large tomato, diced
3/4 tape salt
1/4 tape cumin
2 1/2 Tbsp flour
3-4 on. can toco sauce

Baked Potatoes

Prepare guacamole by mashing avocados with a potato masher in a medium-size bowl, and add remaining ingredients. Cover with plastic wrap and refrigerate. Melt 3 tablespoons butter in skillet and saute onions, tomato, salt, and cumin until zucchini is barely tender, about three minutes. Remove vegetables with slotted spoon. Melt remaining 3 tablespoons butter in skillet, stir in flour and cook one minute. Add toco sauce and stir until smooth and slightly thickened. Return vegetables to skillet to reheat for 3 to 5 minutes. Spoon over baked potato and top with guacamole.

... and whatnot

What this world needs is more Brand X people. There are too many perfectionists around. Too many people who only want to go first class.

One of the happiest moments of my life was when I accepted my role in life as an also-ran. To celebrate I opened a can of spaghetti and washed it down with instant coffee.

... like those groans? They're coming from the first class crowd. The folks who can't eat frozen pizza, who have to have "real coffee" and only buy squeezable toilet paper...

That's because they demand perfection. What I say is, "Perfectionists are seldom satisfied. Those who happily make do with second best are seldom disappointed."

It's the perfectionists who wrote the book of rules. You know: "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again." "If a thing is worth doing, it's worth doing well." And "Let the shoemaker stick to his last."

Well, I say, "If at first you don't succeed, pack it up and let the shoemaker stick it in his ear, if that's what he wants to do."

It's not that I have anything against winning. It's just that the odds are better on place and show.

Also-rans never get gold stars. Never stand in the winner's circle. And don't get anybody's seal of approval. But we have more fun.

We can sing off-key, paint monstrosities, write drivel, and dance on two left feet. But sing we do. And paint, and write and dance. Just for fun. Not for profit. And never ever for adulation. Of course, if somebody wants to adulate, that's okay with us too.

Losers never have to say they're sorry. Or try harder. In fact, we don't even have to try.

"Shame on you," cry the contenders for the championship. "Have you no pride? Can't we win? Any excuse is better than none."

Possibly so. But that's another plus for second-raters. We don't even have to win arguments.

Herrings wed by candlelight

Blue and white flowers and candles decorated the Belle Glade United Methodist Church for the August 16 candlelight wedding of Tina L. Phillips and Daniel Roy Herrings.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Joe Ed McGahen. Soloist was Marie DeCarie and the organist, Mrs. John Youngblood.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Jerry Phillips. Her gown of sateen illusion was trimmed in Spanish Chantilly lace and featured a cathedral-length train. The rose appliques edged the high collar. An Elizabethan cap embroidered with seed pearls held her finger-length veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of blue and white silk flowers and ribbon streamers.

Mr. Tammy K. Spell, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor wearing a floor-length gown and cape of layered blue illusion organza.

She carried a bouquet of silk flowers ... blue sweetheart roses centered with a single white rose and a matching halo.

The colors were repeated in similar gowns and bouquets of the bride's maid, Terry Phillips and Tina M. Morris, sisters of the bride, and Louise Herring, sister of the bridegroom.

Nicky McMillan was the flower girl. She wore a white gown with blue rose-printed eyelet lace and carried a wicker basket of roses.

Jimmy Herring, Jr., was best man for his brother. Ushers were Ronnie Brown, Edwardo Recio, and Steve Herring, also a brother of the bridegroom.

The groomsmen wore blue tuxedos as did the usher, John McLean, who carried the rings on a heart-shaped ring pillow of white satin.

The blue and white theme was repeated for the reception.

Conversation piece of the decorations was the chocolate groom's cake trimmed with dots holding a reluctant grooms fleeing a bride.

The Herrings are making their home in Pahokee following a wedding trip to Alabama.

Assisting in the reception were Vicks Weeks, Sandy Leeman, Linda Mims, Virginia Lewis, Judy Caswell, Isabel Lamb, and Denise Mercer.

Among the wedding guests were the bride's grandmother, Myrtle Phillips and grandmother of the groom, Madeline Layfield and her husband, John.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Burt Gentry, Delray; Joseph W. Spell, Warner Robins, Ga.; Mrs. Bobby Efinger, Black, Ala.; and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Williams and family, Headland, Ala.

Members of the wedding party and families were guests at a rehearsal dinner hosted by Mrs. Herring at the Glades Sugar Corp. dining room.

KEEPING THE FAITH

BY THE REV. JOE ED MCGREHEY
Community United Methodist Church

"Finally, brethren, whatever is true, whatever is honorable, whatever is right, whatever is pure, whatever is lovely, whatever is of good report, if there is any excellence and if there is any worthy of praise dwell on these things."

Philippians 4:8 NAB

This summer, while on vacation, we went camping on Devil Hollow Lake, in Florida. Our camp site could only be reached by boat, so we were out of telephones, TV's and clocks — back in the wilderness.

I am a rock hound; therefore, I am always looking at the rocks wherever I go and usually bring some home with me. Sometimes I bring 10-15 pounds of rocks home, even when flying. So it did not take me long to discover that all over the beach was a particular kind of rock called a gneiss.

Gneiss looks round rocks — which they are. But it is not the outside of a gneiss that really matters. Most of the time they look very ordinary and sometimes they are even ugly. Anyway, not a rock hound would bother with them if that was all there was to them.

But the most important part of a gneiss is what is inside.

I began to break them open to see if they were what I thought they were, and they were. Inside some of them are quartz, crystal formations, some agates, and other sights that light up a rock hound's eyes.

Of course, some of them were just as ordinary on the inside as they were on the outside. One of them was sort of pretty on the outside, but when I cracked it open I threw it in the lake — nothing pretty at all.

Well, this same thing is true about us as people. We tend to put all our energy on the outside, we look on the outside. We tend to judge others in the same way. But when we look on the inside of man, it is what is inside that really counts — that is what we are. Clothes and makeup may make us better looking, but they are not going to determine that kind of people we are.

The inside is what we can do something about. Not only that, but we are responsible for what is on the inside of us.

The rock hounds do the same thing. "For as he is thoughtful in his heart so also is he" (Prov. 23:6) Jesus said. "For out of the heart come evil thoughts, murders, adulteries, fornications, thefts, false witness, blasphemy; these are the things that defile the man" (Matt. 16:19, 20 NAB).

But the New Testament also tells us how we can have a beautiful inside: "Whatever is pure...honorable...right...lovely...of good report, if there is anything worthy of praise, let your mind dwell on these things" (Phil. 4:8 ABS).

What we think about needs to be as act of our will, a choice we make. If we do not make it so, we will find our minds drifting around to most anything and usually it will not be good.

BPW to bring candidates to Pahokee

PAHOKEE -- Glades area voters will have an opportunity to hear November election candidates look them over, and ask them questions Oct. 25.

"Meet the Candidate Night" is being sponsored by the Glades Business & Professional Women at the Prince Theatre starting at 8 p.m.

Invitations are going out this month to national, state and county nominees, according to Wonyia Cummings, chairman of the program, who says some 30 candidates, including presidential hopefuls, are being invited to attend.

"We don't really expect the presidential candidates to come," Miss Cummings admitted, "but we do expect them to send representatives to the event."

The committee will not accept stand-ins for state and county candidates, however, she said. Candidates have been given a deadline of Oct. 11 to reply.

The candidates appearing will be given a time period in which to speak and moving microphones will enable voters to ask questions. There will not be an admission charge.

Meanwhile, posters are being placed in area stores advertising the candidates night program and letters and phone calls will go out to individuals and organizations urging their attendance.

The political program is being held in conjunction with National BPW Week and is a suggested project for the clubs. In staging the candidates night program, the Pahokee group will be competing for the BPW award.

Kathi Ligon, Pahokee BPW president, will serve as master of ceremonies for the program. Isabel Palacio is in charge of publicity.

Lewis gives update on highways

BELLE GLADE -- State Representatives from the area who are seeking the District 27 state senate seat held by Phil Lewis, told Belle Glade Rotarians Tuesday there's no anticipated problem in completing SR80 as far as US88 near 20 Mile Bend but the next section, as far as the eastern foot of the 20 Mile Bend bridge, could be a big hurdle.

Lewis' remarks about SR80 were almost a side issue of a talk he gave to the Rotarians on general road projects, in which he said there is a good possibility the state's interstate highway system could be completed by 1987, with the I-95 gap being closed in 1985 or 1986.

Lewis said his projections are based on a meeting he attended in Washington DC with federal transportation department officials, the entire Florida Congressional delegation and state DOT officials. He said federal funds could become available in the near future because of two agreements that came out of the meeting, including a three year delay built into applications for one funding pool and an estimated $500 million worth of construction funds that are expected to become available from other states next year because design work on interstate highways in those states hasn't been completed.

Lewis said there is a possibility as much as $100 million of that money could be shipped to Florida and used to help close the gaps in I-95 between Fort Pierce and North Palm Beach, an I-75 bypass around Lake Worth, and I-75 gaps, including a long stretch over Alligator Alley between Naples and Fort Lauderdale.
